Cottrill & Co is a Trade Name of Cottrill & Associates Ltd

Former British Button Manufacturer based in the West Midlands, who operated from a purpose-built factory and were one of the world's largest horn button producers as well as the UK's biggest button manufacturer, producing over forty-five million buttons each year.

The Premium range featured high quality buttons made from real horn, polyester, corozo and casein.

The business was founded in 1857. At that time, buttons were either made from Horn or Hoof. Many were compression moulded with crests; either fancy or military insignia.

The Company was incorporated as a Private Limited Company on 11 January 1917 and records show that around 600 men and women were employed at that time, making and polishing buttons by hand.

They were world leaders when it came to manufacturing buttons of exceptional quality and beauty.

When a garment bore a bespoke button from this company, it bore the sign of British manufacturing quality at its best.

One of the traditional trades was uniform buttons, supplying the Ministry of Defence, British Railways, the General Post Office and many sports clubs. Modern machinery allows personalised laser engraving on many types of button materials, compared to the original hand-stamping process on horn and etching on metal buttons.

The company was the only manufacturer of real Horn buttons in the UK but expanded its range of products to include Polyester, Metal, Leather, Nylon and Shell.

A speciality was the provision of buttons made from various materials displaying the individual logos of internationally renowned companies.
